Dear Allan:

As I recall, when you asked us to send you information which we felt could be used by Horace Kornegay in his discussions with influential Congressional leaders, you wanted the sources documented for this information.

Actually, all of the statements we made at the October 25, 1979, meeting were based on the report to the Consumer Product Safety Commission from George Anikis, Program Manager, Fire and Thermal Burn Hazards (September 27, 1979). What we have done is "yellow-line" pertinent statements in the Commission Report with some marginal commentary added. I trust this will suffice for your purposes.

Additionally, we have investigated laboratories which could conduct methodological research and have examined statisticians who could investigate the extant incidence data. These lists are attached..

I hope you will find all of this information useful.

Very truly yours,
